Long before his viral YouTube videos and appearances on national television, Marc Martel spent more than a decade touring the world as the lead vocalist of the acclaimed Canadian rock band Downhere. Known for his extraordinary vocal ability, Martel frequently drew comparisons to the legendary Freddie Mercury—a resemblance that would ultimately change the course of his career.

In 2011, Martel gained international attention after winning Queen's global vocal competition with his stunning rendition of "Somebody To Love." His performance has since amassed millions of views online, earning praise from Queen drummer Roger Taylor, who famously remarked, "You listen, close your eyes and you think it's Freddie. It's really uncanny." Martel has since become one of the most celebrated interpreters of Queen's music in the world.

Today, Martel brings that remarkable talent to One Vision of Queen, an electrifying tribute concert featuring many of Queen's greatest hits, including "Bohemian Rhapsody," "We Will Rock You," "We Are the Champions," "Somebody To Love," and more. Combining powerful vocals, theatrical production, and the timeless music of Queen, One Vision of Queen delivers an unforgettable live experience that has captivated audiences around the globe.
